

Bibliography Geographical Economics (Second part)

1- Industrial location theory

McCann, Ph. (2002) Urban and Regional Economics. O.U.P. Chapter 1. (web)

O'Sullivan, A (2005) Urban Economics. McMillan Chapter 2 (web)

2- Economies of agglomeration (Theory)

O'Sullivan, A. (2007) Urban Economics. McGrawHill. Chapter 3. (web)

On dynamic agglomeration economies:

Glaeser et al. (1992) "Growth in cities", Journal of Political Economy, 100, 6, 1126-1152. (only the theoretical part) (web)

On urban size and specialization:

Combes P., Duranton, G. and Overman, H. (2005) "Agglomeration and the adjustment of the spatial economy", Papers in Regional Science, 84, pp. 311-349. (pp. 311-320; 337-339) (web)

A more advanced text on the theory of agglomeration economies:

Duranton, G. and D. Puga (2004) "Micro-foundations of urban agglomeration economies" en J.V. Henderson and J.F. Thisse (eds.) Handbook of Urban and Regional economics, Vol. 4, North-Holland.

3- Economies of agglomeration (Measurement and evidence)

On indexes of spatial concentration:

Combes, P., T. Mayer and J-F. Thisse (2008) Economic Geography. The integration of Regions and Nations. Princeton. Chapter 10 (web)

Evidence using indexes of spatial concentration:

Kim, S. (1995) "Expansion of markets and the geographic distribution of economic activities", Quarterly Journal of Economics, 110, 881-908.

Rosenthal, S.S. and W.C. Strange (2010) "The Determinants of Agglomeration", Journal of Urban Economics, 50,191-229

On the measurement and evidence of agglomeration economies:

Combes, P.P., Mayer, T. and Thisse, J. (2008) Economic geography. The integration of regions and nations. Chapter 11. (web)

This is a more advanced text on measurement and evidence of agglomeration economies:

Rosenthal, S.S. y W.C. Strange (2004) "Evidence on the nature and sources of agglomeration economies" en J.V. Henderson y J.F. Thisse (eds.) Handbook of Urban and Regional economics, Vol. 4, North-Holland

Examples of the different modeling approaches to measure agglomeration economies:

Approaching measurement through production function:

Ciccone, A. (2002) "Agglomeration effects in Europe", European Economic Review, 46, 213-227

Greenstone, M. et al. (2010) "Identifying agglomeration spillovers: evidence from winners and losers of large plant openings", Journal of Political Economy, 118, 536-598.

Approaching measurement through wages:

Glaeser, E. and D.C. Maré (2001) "Cities and skills", Journal of Labor Economics, 19(2), 316-342.

If you want to know evidence on a European case (France):

Combes, P.P. et al. (2008) "Spatial wage disparities: sorting matters!", Journal of Urban Economics, 63, 723-742

Approaching measurement through employment growth:

Glaeser et al. (1992) "Growth in cities", Journal of Political Economy, 100, 6, 1126-1152.

Henderson, V. et al. (1995) "Industrial development in cities", Journal of Political Economy, 103, 5, 1067-1090.

Approaching measurement through firm births:

Rosenthal, S.S. and W.C. Strange (2003) "Geography, industrial organization, and agglomeration", Review of Economics and Statistics, 85, 377-93
